RECORE's Biomolecular Detoxes are innovative and intensive programmes exclusively designed to meet your personalized health needs concerning addiction.

Our intensive treatment programmes detoxify organically and repair damage on a cell-level after years of excessive use of alcohol, drugs or prescribed medication.

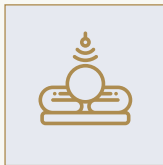

Our programmes significantly improve physical health and emotional wellbeing. Our comprehensive psychiatric assessment and treatment can identify the true underlying causes of an addiction, leading to physical and emotional healing. Using biochemical analysis our experts can accurately determine your individual biochemical deficiencies to holistically cater your needs. We can help you mastering your illness and develop a plan of healthier use of substances or alcohol or even achieve abstinence.
